Topical Pitstop Workshops

Time is an increasingly precious commodity in the transport industry. Managers have to focus on compliance and managing road risk – but at the same time, they must control costs and maximise driver availability. DriveWise offers the perfect solution – short, informative workshops that can be delivered face-to-face or online, where employees can receive topical information on a variety of driving related subjects.

Aim

The aim of these workshops is to give drivers a short burst of information and advice relating to specific topics and can include issues surrounding changes in seasonal driving conditions.

Course overview

These workshops can be delivered online or face-to-face, to small groups of up to 10 people. Each workshop lasts for approx. 30 minutes and focusses on one specific topic.

The option to deliver the training online will prove very useful for home workers or employees spread across multiple sites. The video conferencing facility will allow attendees the opportunity to ask questions directly to the trainer, whilst also listening to the views of their colleagues.

DriveWise also offers the option to book back-to-back workshops if more than one topic is requested. Following the workshop, an attendance register can be supplied to the fleet manager for auditing purposes.

Duration – 20 – 30 minutes per topic

Training ratio – up to 10 delegates to 1 trainer

Delivery platform – various including Microsoft Teams, WebEx or Zoom

Workshop topics include, but are not limited to:

- Observation/concentration
- Speed
- Drink/drugs and driving
- Low speed manoeuvring
- Loading
- Eco driving
- Mental health
- Van driving
- Banksman
- Fatigue
- Distractions
- Winter driving
- Smart motorways
- Driver Attitude
